Taken By Russians

LONDON (AP) — Petrikovka, 10 miles from the Dnieper and 23 miles northwest of Dnieperopetrovsk, near where the Russians dynamited their greatest dam during the 1941 defeat, was recaptured in the smashing offensive, said communiqué broadcast from Moscow tonight.

Five other large populated places fell to the Soviets closing in on the great Dnieper River bend.

It was made plain that Soviet forces which forced a crossing of the Dnieper captured Smolensk by storm.

Drive Across Dnieper

LONDON (CP) — Moscow dispatches late today said advanced Russian forces were fighting their way across the Dnieper River at half a dozen points between Smolensk and menaced Kiev.

F.O. Cherer Missing

F.O. Kenneth Claude Cherer, R.C.A.F., is reported to be missing on air operations over enemy territory, according to word received today by his father, G. C. Cherer, 914 Grant Street.

224-Gun Salute To Smolensk Victory

LONDON (CP) — In celebration of the recapture of Smolensk, Moscow's greatest hour since the winter of 1941 — when Hitler himself directed the German offensive from Smolensk which his army had captured in 55 days — radio broadcasts tonight told how the Russian capital echoed to salvos from 224 victory guns, 100 more than touched off for any other victory.

Rupert To Carry On

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Bernard Allen, manager of the Prince Rupert drydock, said today the shipyards will "carry on as is" with a 48-hour, six-day week. (Shipyards in Vancouver will revert Monday to a 5½-day week.)

Shorten Deferments

MONTREAL (CP) — Competent male students who are 18½ years old or older will be granted deferments from military training for one session only, new National Selective Service Regulations say. Incompetent students will neither be allowed to enter university or to stay there if already in.

$30 Alberta Pensions

EDMONTON (CP) — Hon. Solomon E. Low, provincial treasurer, announced today Alberta old age pensioners will receive $30 a month under arrangements being completed with the federal government. It is expected the increase will be retroactive to Sept. 1.

Army May End Strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Evidence of heightened U.S. army pressure to end the strike which has visited total paralysis on freight and passenger traffic on the Pacific Electric Railway's rail and bus lines was seen today when Maj. T. I. Shea, 9th Service Command labor relations officer, conferred at length with union spokesmen.

Turns Down $600,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Associates of Oscar Serlin, producer of "Life With Father," said today he had turned down an offer of $600,000 from a movie concern. It was the largest offer ever made for screen rights to a play.

In a wire thanking the company for the offer Serlin said, "in any deal that is eventually made, the financial terms will not be the persuading factor."

(The play was seen in Victoria a year or so ago.)

St. Omer Airfield Hit In Day Raid

LONDON (AP) — U.S. medium bombers, escorted by British Spitfires, attacked the Longuenesse airfield at St. Omer in northern France this afternoon, it was announced tonight.

Fires were still burning late yesterday in the twin German-industrial cities of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen almost 48 hours after the heavy attack by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Thursday night, the Air Ministry said.

"Fresh damage done that night was severe, especially in the dock, central and Neckar Stadt areas of Mannheim," the statement said.

"Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness! Close bosom friend of the maturing sun," the poet Keats called the season of Autumn. Voters Hostile Over 'Bureaucratic Manners'—
Not Wartime Controls—Liberal Caucus Told;
Blueprint for Postwar Canada Being Drawn

By NORMAN MACLEOD

OTTAWA — Not only Dominion-wide machinery for organization, but also—and more important—an elaborate formulation of Liberalism's program for a postwar Canada, will result from the present series of Liberal gatherings here, informed sources intimated today.

As one leading figure in Liberal Party councils explained to me just before the parliamentary group resumed its sittings closed doors today, the present situation closely parallels the one in 1932 when the Liberal Party, then in opposition, initiated a series of conferences which finally crystallized in the celebrated 14-point program upon which it swept back into power in the 1935 elections.

POSTWAR BLUE PRINT

A similar process, it is intimated, is now being launched in discussions which will reach their climax Monday in the meeting of the National Liberal Federation. The finished product expected from the deliberations is a comprehensive Liberal Party blue print for a postwar Canada — program which will, party sources declare, arrest the drift to the G.C.F. by being specific rather than vague and emotional, practical rather than visionary, and democratic rather than bureaucratic or socialistic.

The program will be supported, it is promised definitely, by Dominion-wide organization machinery which will guarantee the utmost efficiency in results — especially in giving the program the publicity it deserves. It is intimated, especially, that the confidence which the government has felt since the war commenced on the matter of political organization, will be abandoned immediately in the immediate future, and that the example which the C.C.F. and Progressive Conservatives have set in this regard will be cited as justification.

It is felt particularly, Liberal sources declared, that the opposition parties freed the hands of the government completely in this regard by the policies which they have adopted in British Columbia and in Manitoba, where co-operative ministries are in power.

Despite the fact that the ad-

National Liberal Federation, informed caucus sources predict, will be a provincial organization, will be fully manned and with adequate publicity facilities, to function in the British Columbia and Manitoba.

In the meantime, it is stated authoritatively, that neither cabinet reorganization nor any change in the government's policy of wartime controls are likely to be sequels of the present parliamentary caucus.

The possible exception was a suggestion from a monetary reform source that there should be cabinet reorganization and that it should begin at the top. This proposal was declared to have secured no echo in other caucus quarters.

With Eden, Molotov

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov probably will meet soon in Moscow in search of a British-U.S.-Soviet agreement on war objectives and postwar collaboration.

Secretary Hull's delegation is likely to include W. Averell Harriman, lend-lease expeditor at London, as new U.S. ambassador to Moscow.

Admiral William H. Standley, retiring ambassador, conferred

today with Hull, in the presence of Harriman, as well as James C. Dunn, state department political adviser, and H. Freeman Matthews, chief of the European division.

While Stanley declined to dis-

Toronto Hospital
Deaths Bring Probe

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Smyth Lawson, chief coroner for Ontario, said today he would call a conference of anaesthetists at the Academy of Medicine as a consequence of deaths of a child and a woman in Toronto hospitals in the past two days. He said he was "worried by the large number of deaths under anaesthesia."

Deaths Dr. Lawson investigated were those of Robert Klages, 10, of Fort William, and Mrs. Margaret Train, 32, of Toronto. He said the boy was being operated on for a cleft palate, an intricate and lengthy operation, and death was caused when blood flowed into his windpipe. Mrs. Train, who was being operated on for appendicitis, died of a collapsed lung, Dr. Lawson said.

Records showed some 20 persons have died since the first of the year while undergoing operations in Toronto hospitals.

80,000 Fans Watch
England Beat Wales

LONDON (CP) — England, finishing in sensational style, whipped Wales 8 to 3 today in the season's first international football match that drew the police-limit crowd of 80,000 — the greatest soccer gathering of the war.

The game was played at Wembley Stadium and marked up a scoring record for international matches at the ground.

The Welsh defence was broken by repeated attacks and England crashed through for four goals in five minutes during the closing period of play.

Rumanian Envoys Reported Seeking Armistice

MADRID (AP) — Reports, some clearly of German origin, circulated here today that representatives of the Rumanian government are negotiating with Allied representatives at Ankara, Turkey, for an armistice.

The Rumanians first attempted, the reports said, to omit the Russians and negotiate only with the western powers, but failing in this agreed to meet the tri-power representatives.

There was no indication of the progress of the rumored meetings, but Balkan representatives here feel such conferences might be linked with Budapest reports of growing tension between Rumania and Hungary over Transylvania, northern Rumanian area ceded to Hungary under Axis pressure.

The reports said Rumania first sounded out the Allies for an armistice shortly after Benito Mussolini was ousted as Italian premier, and again sought an armistice conference immediately after the Italian capitulation.

TRANSYLVANIA WORRIES

Although reconciled to unconditional surrender, the Rumanians were said to be mainly concerned over the method of surrender and the fate of Transylvania.

(CBS recorded a BBC broadcast of a report from Istanbul today that a Bulgarian envoy is expected there soon to seek a basis for Turkish intervention with the Allies on Bulgaria's behalf.)

ALLIES MOVE NORTHWARD

This map indicates how the occupied area of Italy is spreading from the foot of the boot. Latest reports say the British 8th Army had pushed from Bari up the east coast to the outskirts of Molfetta.

An indication the Germans despaired of ever being able to establish a strong defensive line across the whole Italian peninsula, which would enable them to retain possession of Naples, was seen in the fact that the British 8th Army advanced 15 miles up the Adriatic coast from Bari to the outskirts of the town of Molfetta without encountering enemy resistance.

Allied Forces Astride Roads

The advance of the 8th Army, officially described as "several miles," put Allied forces astride several crossroads north and northeast of Salerno.

"Very heavy casualties" have been inflicted on the enemy since the 8th Army's big-scale assault toward Naples began, official reports said, and it was stated that the army had captured 2,000 German prisoners since the landing at Salerno Sept. 9. The bag of captives was growing constantly.

British and U.S. losses in the offensive have been comparatively light, it was said.

(London dispatches, reporting German broadcasts, said the Nazis were putting out further alarms of imminent Allied landings in Italy, either on the Adriatic or Tyrrhenian coast.)

Man Seriously Hurt In Malahat Crash

Two men escaped almost certain death Friday evening as their loaded wood truck, which had gone out of control on the Malahat and torn up 20 feet of guard rail, came to rest on the edge of a 100-foot bank near Arbutus Creek bridge.

One of the men, Robert Stevenson, 491 Burdett Avenue, however, was described by Royal Jubilee Hospital authorities today as being in a serious condition. He suffered concussion, broken ribs and a fractured collar bone, as well as extensive bruises and lacerations. He was showing signs of regaining consciousness today.

Fakir Chand, an East Indian, who was driving the truck, told Constable H. Smith of the B.C. Police a blowout had sent the truck out of control. He suffered a deep gash in the forehead but was released from hospital after receiving first-aid treatment.

In the words of the headquarter spokesman, the Allied troops could watch "our air forces knocking out enemy communications in the area below."

Reports from the front said the whole rugged mountain area north and northeast of Salerno was brilliantly lighted throughout Friday night by the flashes of a terrific artillery duel between hundreds of Allied and German guns.

Lieut.-Gen. Clark, who appeared to have been swinging his forces somewhat eastward from his previous hard course, due north of Salerno in a drive to outflank Naples, now seemed to be thrusting forward with Vesuvius as a beacon, and a breakthrough in the mountain area appeared possible at any time.

The spokesman said "the tempo of the battle will increase tremendously" once the Allies drive the enemy to the plains below.

B.C. Police said the cars, passing on the curved Arbutus Creek bridge, collided, and one car was thrown against the rail, only to leave the roadway and pile up in a ditch at the approach to the bridge.

One car, police said, was driven by Margaret Carter, Elizabeth Street, Alberni. The name of the driver of the other car is not available. The Carter car suffered an estimated $4

Famine In India

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The grave famine conditions on the densely populated eastern seaboard of India add to the concern already felt over the continuing political crisis in this vast country which not only is the Allied arsenal of the Orient, but principal base for the coming offensive against Japan through Burma.

Latest dispatches say more than 1,000,000 hungry people are being fed in Bengal province, which has a population of 60,000,000. In the great port of Calcutta alone there have been 50 deaths a day from starvation. An army of hungry folk some 100,000 strong wanders in the streets without shelter.

This plague of starvation didn't come without warning to India, where much of the population of 400,000,000 is hungry even in the best of times.

The trouble is due to several factors. Among these are hoarding of grain, faulty distribution, shipment of foodstuffs abroad to reopen the case.

7 U.S. Plane Crews Interned In Siberia

MOSCOW (AP) — Seven U.S. planes landed in Soviet territory in Kamchatka Sept. 12, date of the last bombing of the Japanese Kurile Islands, it was announced today.

The announcement said the planes and crews had been interned.

(An American intelligence officer, describing the raid Sept. 13, said five planes were presumed lost and five others might have reached land.)

The Russian announcement said the planes were forced down because of engine trouble.

Buzz' Beurling Again In Action

LONDON (CP) — Canadian flying aces in some of the most productive aerial fighting since the days of the Battle of Britain three years ago destroyed five enemy fighters Friday in widespread actions over France.

FO, George (Buzz) Beurling of Verdun, Que., marked his long-sought return to action by shooting down Focke Wulf 190 to raise his score of enemy planes to 30.

Maintaining the blistering pace set by R.C.A.F. night Mosquito fliers, the Canadian pilots knocked out of the sky five of the 20 enemy planes downed by fighter command during Friday.

Three of four German fighters shot down Thursday night were victims of Canadian airmen.

Flying with the Wolf Squadron under Sqdn. Ldr. Norman Fowles of Windsor, N.S., Beurling saw the FW-190 above him. He circled and tore off the enemy's port wing with a single burst.

Wing Cmdr. L. V. Chadburn of Aurora, Ont., and Flt. Lt. J. D. Mitchener of Saskatoon shared one of the day's bag.

Others fell to Flt. Lt. Robert Buckham of Vancouver, leader of the Red Indian Squadron, and Wing Cmdr. E. F. J. Charles of Vancouver, who flies with the R.A.F.

Beurling had been yearning to get back into combat flying ever since he was stationed in Malta, where he ran his score of enemy planes down from two to 29.

He transferred from the R.A.F. to the R.C.A.F. on September 1 to "get back into the air."

Labor Majority Reduced to 6 in New Zealand

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — The New Zealand Labor government has been re-elected, but with its majority reduced.

Final returns Saturday night showed:

Labor won 43 seats, compared with 49 it held in the last House. The National Party, which is the official opposition, won 35, a gain from the 23 it had previously. Independents took two, losing three of their previous five seats.

The standing in the new House thus will be: Labor 43, National 35, Independent 3—total 80.

At dissolution the standing was: Labor 49, National 23, Independents 5, vacant 3—80.

The Democratic Soldier Labor Party, which made a strong bid in many constituencies, failed to elect a single member, but it was believed to have been a factor in the National Party's gain of 12 seats because the new group tended to split the Labor vote.

Four of the 80 seats had been settled Friday when Prime Minister Peter Fraser's Labor Party swept all the Maori House representatives constituencies, a gain of one from the three of these seats Labor held before dissolution.

Leader of the National Party, which will be a stronger factor in the new House than in the last, is G. Holland, who replaced the late J. G. Coates, a former prime minister, and Adam Hamilton, now a member of the war cabinet.

John A. Lee, a Radical who was expelled some time ago from the Labor Party, founded and led the Democratic Soldier Labor Party. A soldier in the ranks in the New Zealand expeditionary force in the last war, in which he lost an arm and won the Distinguished Conduct Medal, Lee split with Labor over its financial policy, arguing it should have taken over the banks.

The course of the election differed from that of the recent Australian election in that while Labor in Australia was re-elected, it strongly increased its slim majority in the lower House, whereas in New Zealand the government was left with but an over-all majority of six, compared with the 21 it had in the old House.

Minor parties such as the People's Movement and the Real Democracy Movement cut no figure in the final results.

Tin Growing Scarce

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tin is so scarce, the Agriculture Department says, that if the war lasts another year or two, civilian supplies of canned fruits and vegetables in the U.S. may have to be cut sharply below present rationed levels.

It would be possible, it said, to maintain consumption of canned foods at the present level for perhaps four more years of war. It added it would not be desirable to permit tin stocks to decline to zero so long as no one can be sure just when victory over Japan will come.

The department said because canned fruits and vegetables are an important part of the North American diet, greater effort on the part of government and industry is needed to find alternative methods of preserving fruits and vegetables.

It would be possible, it said, to maintain consumption of canned foods at the present level for perhaps four more years of war. It added it would not be desirable to permit tin stocks to decline to zero so long as no one can be sure just when victory over Japan will come.

The church is playing a great part in the national life," he continued, "and Premier Stalin as a great statesman has recognized this fact."

He said he had heard little second front talk in his conversations.

To Stock Minto Ranch

EDMONTON (CP) — Claude Gallinger of Edmonton said here he plans to stock the famed Minto Ranch, about 55 miles south of Calgary, with the nucleus of a Shorthorn herd from the surplus of his herds at Tofield and Gold Bar Farm, Clover Bar, which comprise one of the most outstanding in Canada. Stocking will be started next year.

Deeded property, the ranch was established in 1884 and was owned first by the Earl of Minto.

Beating off heavy fighter opposition, the bombers Thursday night dealt Mannheim-Ludwigs-hafen a heavy blow and also pounded Aachen, near Cologne, and Darmstadt, near Mannheim.

U.S. daylight bombers Friday hit the Eureux-Fauville airfield near Paris, carrying the round-the-clock aerial assault into a third straight day.

Funeral service was held Friday.

He returned to his job last Wednesday, and half an hour after he was back was told by Wallace Clarke, personnel head at the Ford plant, that he was no longer on the payroll of the company. His dismissal is effective Sept. 29—seven days after he was notified.

Company officials said that by granting Alles leave of absence it would be setting a precedent and therefore had not authorized him to stay away from his job.

Archbishop Spellman Asks Prayers For Pope

NEW YORK (AP) — Archbishop Francis J. Spellman called on Roman Catholics today to pray for Pope Pius XII, declaring "he is a prisoner."

Speaking at the dedication of a new building of St. Joseph's Academy, the New York archbishop said:

"We have prayed for the Holy Father because his position is most difficult, and like St. Peter of old, and like other Popes of the church, he is a prisoner. He is not free to communicate with his archbishops in dioceses throughout the world."

"While we have no positive and concrete way of helping him, we can remember him frequently and fervently in our prayers, that the Lord will bless him and enable him to guide the church, and that through God's blessing the church may be spared further persecution and further harm."

Beaverbrook Again In British Cabinet In Latest Shuffle

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Winston Churchill today re-shuffled his cabinet in a move to strengthen the government for the tasks of postwar planning, bringing back Lord Beaverbrook as Lord Privy Seal and making Sir John Anderson Chancellor of the Exchequer. Other changes:

Clement Attlee, Labor Party leader, exchanges the Dominions Office portfolio for that of Lord President of the Council, formerly held by Sir John Anderson. He remains deputy prime minister.

Lord Cranborne, 50, gives up the post of Lord Privy Seal to become Dominions Secretary, remaining government leader in the House of Lords.

Richard K. Law, 42, was named minister of state.

Three lesser appointments also were announced:

G. H. Hall, Labor, formerly financial secretary to the Admiralty, succeeded Law as foreign under-secretary.

J. P. Thomas, Conservative, formerly lord commissioner of the treasury, became financial secretary of the Admiralty.

N. A. Beechman, National Liberal, became lord commissioner of the treasury.

Criticized FREELY

Lord Beaverbrook, 64-year-old New Brunswick-born newspaper publisher, had been one of the most constant and vociferous critics of the government since he left his post as minister of supply early last year. He is not a member of the war cabinet.

As general utility minister he will be able to assist Mr. Churchill with special administrative work and probably will preside over a number of governmental committees concerned with both war and postwar organization.

Sir John Anderson, 61, takes over the arduous post held by Sir Kingsley Wood until the latter's death last Tuesday. He will remain in the war cabinet.

Law, a son of the late Andrew Bonar Law, a native of Canada who was prime minister of Britain for some months in 1922 and 1923, formerly was parliamentary under-secretary of state in the Foreign Office. He will be given responsibility for foreign office work concerned with post-war preparations.

The claims were without any Allied confirmation.

Committed For Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — Charles W. Davis, former Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps staff sergeant, was committed in police court here Friday to stand trial on a charge that he abstracted morphine from army medical stores and substituted strychnine. His committal came after army and navy officers had testified that Davis was a self-confessed drug addict. The crown charges the former New Westminster druggist with withdrawing the morphine from syrettes and vials destined for distribution in the Pacific Command.

Army officials said most of the substances had been recovered.

180,000 Yugoslavs Fighting Germans

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Budapest dispatch to the newspaper Svenska Dagbladet said today that a full-scale military operation was under way against German and Nazi satellite troops in Yugoslavia by a force 180,000 strong under Allied command.

The dispatch said the action had reached the scale where it could no longer be considered guerrilla warfare, and Berlin dispatches said the Germans were

UNITE FORCES

ISTANBUL (AP) — Greek and Serbian guerrilla forces are preparing for joint action against German communications and troop concentrations, reliable information from Nazi-occupied Greece disclosed today.

Three high commanders of the Andarts, Greek patriotic organization, conferred recently with Allied Middle East military officials at an undisclosed location, the information said, and as a result they will meet shortly when Gen. Draja Mihailovic or his representatives somewhere in Yugoslavia to plan joint tactics.

The cross-section was as carefully selected as always, and differed from that ordinarily used only in so far as it was necessary to exclude the farm vote because of the interviewing difficulties involved in a quick poll. In a February survey, however, farm opinion was found to be only a point or two away from the national figure.

In order to be able to compare opinion on the price-wage controls today with what it was a few months ago, the question used in this telegraphic survey was identical with that used in a February survey.

The answer: Nearly seven in every 10 Canadians not living on farms still approve, although in February eight in every 10 approved.

Smolensk Falls

GERMANY'S D.N.B. NEWS AGENCY has again "scoped" Moscow. It has announced the "detachment" of Nazi troops from Smolensk—the greatest and most heavily-fortified bastion on the eastern front. But it is safe to say that Marshal Stalin will not object in the least to this type of publicity technique. Perhaps before this is read he will have issued a special order of the day to the accompaniment of super-blasts of Russian artillery. He waited a week before confirming Berlin's announcement of the Nazi "evacuation" of Bryansk. And the Ukrainian capital of Kiev, too, may have fallen by the end of the day. The return of these Russian cities to their rightful owners would indeed call for more than ordinary celebration by our gallant allies; and all the peoples of all the United Nations are saluting the Soviet armies as they score daily victories which so obviously are dealing mortal blows to the much-vaunted Wehrmacht.

The invasion of the Soviet Union was less than a month old when the historic city of Smolensk fell into German hands. But it was the bitter fighting which took place in that vital area in the fall and winter of 1941 and in the following spring which began to explode in the most telling manner the myth of Nazi invincibility. No matter what Berlin's propagandists may say at this stage, for more than two years the scientifically-devised defensive system which the enemy established round the approaches to this supposedly-impregnable citadel had been considered one of fortress-maker General Todt's masterpieces. General Timoshenko and General Zhukov used all the ingenuity at their command to reduce it; and terrible was the slaughter there in the early days of Russo-German conflict. It nevertheless had stood for 26 months. It fall represents the most important triumph for Soviet arms since Stalingrad and, by the same token, the bitterest military disaster the Germans have suffered—because it has occurred when Adolf Hitler's fortunes are at a low ebb.

If the removal of the enemy from Smolensk—with Kiev either evacuated or about to fall in the face of the relentless westward drive of the Russian armies—were an isolated proof of the increasing striking power of Marshal Stalin's men, it would spell serious consequences for the Wehrmacht. But it means more than this. The reduction of this vitally-strategic defensive point clearly indicates that the whole eastern front from the White Sea to the Black Sea must soon undergo a complete realignment, both by the sheer force of immediate circumstances and the Nazi high command's necessity to look to its rear. Only the seasoned expert, of course, is competent to judge the essential military effect of this latest significant development. But one does not require a special knowledge of psychology to guess the effect such a disaster must inevitably produce on the morale of the home front in the Reich.

What Price 'Difficult'?

FROM THE TIME OF THE LANDING OF Anglo-American troops on the shores of French north Africa until ultimate agreement produced the French Committee of National Liberation, certain elements in official quarters—particularly in Washington—let it be known that General de Gaulle was "difficult" to get along with. Some newspapers avidly seized on this label to support their argument that by utilizing some of the presumably less obnoxious French officials who had taken orders from Vichy the military cause of the United Nations had been well served—better than otherwise would have been the case. Nor is it necessary to enlarge upon the point at this juncture; so far as one is able to judge, the relations between General de Gaulle and General Giraud are no longer seriously strained. Both are imbued with the same idea—the defeat of the remaining Axis powers.

It is nevertheless worth remembering the danger of using a blanket label to write off some public official as a liability merely because he refuses to say "yes" to something in which he has not the faintest belief or confidence. His conduct from the beginning, dating from his first appeal to his compatriots in the June days of 1940, marked General de Gaulle as a man who knew his cause—and his course—was right and did not propose to allow anybody to divert his mind or his energies. Small wonder the Prime Minister gave him Britain's support and encouragement at the outset of the Free French movement. Mr. Churchill had had a great deal of experience with men in authority who no doubt on many occasions between 1936 and 1939 would have gleefully violated the law to "undo" him if they had felt they could have got away with it. For if ever an eminent figure in public life won the right to be called "difficult" by the appeasers and their ilk, it was Winston Spencer Churchill, member for the Epping division of Essex. So General de Gaulle was in good company all the time.

Religious Education Week

WHAT IS THE CAUSE OF JUVENILE delinquency? How can it be prevented? What can be done about a seemingly hopeless case? These are three questions which have been dealt with in varied form in the correspondence columns of this and other newspapers in recent months. We do not propose to get out of our depth by trying to answer them. Next week, however, the Protestant Churches of Canada will be devoting daily thought to religious education—its meaning and its implications—and the home life of the nation. These deliberations may produce a new approach to a problem which has acquired numerous complexities under wartime conditions, not the least important aspect of which is the swollen family pay envelope and all it connotes.

What can be said without fear of contradiction is that the preservation of the home is the essential foundation of our democratic way of life. All the great social changes through the centuries were in defense of the home—which, after all, remains the citadel of faith and the supporting bulwark of our social order. It must nevertheless be admitted that the migratory urge, a materialistic view of life, and in numerous instances the deprivation of parental care, are delivering-mass attacks upon the home such as no other institution has been called upon to bear. It will not be amiss, therefore, to recall Queen Elizabeth's appeal of last April for the spiritual revitalization of our homes. Her Majesty said on that occasion in part:

"It is on the strength of our spiritual life that the right rebuilding of our national life depends. Our home must be the place where it should start. It is the creative and dynamic power of Christianity which can help us to carry the moral responsibilities which history is placing on our shoulders."

The home, moreover, is the natural cornerstone of government, as indeed it was one of the earliest forms of government. All other civilized institutions are of minor importance in comparison. In this belief we differ with totalitarian nations wherein the home and its individuals are pawns subservient to an impersonalized state. When the moral force that emanates from a religious home loses its efficacy, there is little for which we may hope. The community is simply a group of families; towns and cities and countries are groups of communities, all resting upon the home as their common base. To build the kind of home our country needs is a full-time job for every one of us. Somewhere in the process may be found the answers to the three questions we have asked.

Church And Soviet

BY HIS PRESENCE IN MOSCOW THE Archbishop of York has evidently fired many newspaper correspondents with a new urge to brush up on their knowledge of the relationship between the Russian church and the Soviet regime. It is just a year, incidentally, since a beautifully printed, bound and illustrated book was published by the Moscow Patriarchate called "The Truth About Religion in Russia." Fifty thousand copies of this volume were produced. It contained speeches and sermons by the present Patriarch Sergius and other leading churchmen—stating the church's attitude toward the war and the Soviet State.

Foreigners in Moscow at that time treated the publication with some irony. They assumed it had been specially printed for foreign consumption and for export. Actually, we are told, the book abounded in a variety of understatements where it touched on the orthodox Church's difficulties during the past 25 years, but it was nevertheless clear that the document in itself was a highly-important landmark in the history of the church and its relations with the present government.

Nobody would seriously suggest, of course, that because the Patriarchate has been re-established with the approval of the Soviet government that the regime has gone clerical. Marshal Stalin and his intimate colleagues have always kept a finger on the pulse of Russian public opinion and closely examined the innermost desires of the Russian people. On this point, moreover, a prominent Soviet personality explained to Mr. Alexander Werth of the New York Times:

"We don't want any part of our population that think we are trying in any way to deprive them of something they genuinely and deeply desire—religion. The church has been patriotic and loyal and, if in the past the church was traditionally associated with the old regime and was almost automatically anti-Soviet, 25 years have made an enormous difference. Today the church has realized profoundly the national character of our regime and has fully 'accepted' us."

What is plain to detect from the new attitude of the Kremlin toward the re-establishment of the church is its synchronization with the revival of the Russian national tradition which has been going on for some years, particularly since 1935. Many Russian unbelievers, Mr. Werth observes, are very pleased with the reform because they like churches and church ritual as something belonging to Russian historical traditions. And it will be readily understood that in a country where so much is said about the great heroes and statesmen of the past, including Ivan the Terrible and Peter the Great, there is an inevitable interest in the church. The Archbishop of York's testimony in Moscow yesterday that he found complete religious freedom is significant and important.

Franklin D. Roosevelt:

Income tax and super tax on the largest incomes in Britain take 97% per cent of the gross income. Latest returns show that only 80 persons in Britain now have an income, after taxes, of more than £6,000, or about $26,000.

Britain and U.S.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S LETTER TO MR. CHURCHILL

THE MANCHESTER Guardian publishes in full President Roosevelt's letter to Prime Minister Churchill, the letter in which the President promised complete United States co-operation, permitting Britain to put its flag over United States war vessels and fight the war with a one-flag fleet.

The Prime Minister made a public statement in which he said: "We confined ourselves purely to the war period, leaving arrangements suitable to peacetime settlements to be discussed at a future date."

But passing what is to come after the war and coming back to the war consolidation of the two navies, here is a statement of the Prime Minister's that is well worth reading:

"The transfer to one flag of 150-200 ships, which has already begun and will be spread over 10 months, will absorb our reserves of trained seafaring population, and the resources of both countries will be economically and providently applied to our main purpose."

With this in mind we may turn to the President's letter to the Prime Minister, which the latter read to the House of Commons with the President's permission. The Guardian publishes it in full:

"The White House, Washington.

"Dear Mr. Prime Minister: When you were with us during the latter part of December, 1941, and the first few days of 1942—after we had become active participants in the war—plans for the division of responsibility between your country and mine became generally fixed in certain understandings. In matters of production as well as in other matters we agreed that mutual advantages were to be gained by concentrating, in so far as it was practical, our energies in doing those things which each of us was best qualified to do.

"Here in this country are the natural resources of critical materials. Here there had been developed the welding technique which enables us to construct standard merchant ships with a speed unequalled in the history of merchant shipping. Here there was waiting cargo to be moved in ships to your island and to other theatres.

"If your country was to have carried out its contemplated ship construction program it would have been necessary to move large tonnages of the raw materials that we have here across the Atlantic to your mills and yards and then, in the form of a finished ship, to send them back to our ports for the cargo that was waiting to be carried. Obviously this would have entailed a waste of materials and time. It was only natural for us then to decide that this country was to be the predominant cargo-ship building area for us both while your country was to devote its facilities and resources principally to the construction of combat vessels.

"You in your country reduced your merchant shipbuilding program and directed your resources more particularly to other fields in which you were more favorably situated, while we became the merchant shipbuilder for the two of us, and have built, and are continuing to build a vast tonnage of cargo vessels.

"Our merchant fleet has become larger and will continue to grow at a rapid rate. To match its ever-increasing number of vessels will, we foresee, present difficulties of no mean proportion. On your side, the British merchant fleet has been diminished, and you have in your pool as a consequence trained seamen and licensed personnel. Clearly it would be extravagant were this body of experienced men of the sea not to be used as promptly as possible. To fail to use them would result in a wastage of man-power on your side and a wastage of man-power on our side, and—what is of equal importance—a wastage of shipping facilities.

"We cannot afford this waste. In order that the general understanding that we reached during the early days of our engagement together in this country may be more directly carried out and in order—as a practical matter—to avoid the prodigal use of man-power and shipping that would result from pursuing any other course, I am directing the War Shipping Administration, under bareboat arrangement, to transfer to your flag for temporary wartime duties during each of the suggested next 10 months a minimum of 15 ships. I have furthermore suggested power over their fellow creatures—human or animal—invite a great responsibility and must be

Cobras in India, sacred to the natives, keep the rat population down, and thus lessen bubonic plague and other rat-born diseases.

Suppose you stay up too late tonight, eat indiscretely, overindulge in drink or smoke, or suppose you are under a constant strain... you just know excess acid will cause distress and loss of sleep... if you don't do something about it!

Just ask for Phillips' Milk of Magnesia at any drug store today. It's an OVER-NIGHT route to bright mornings—a "Milky Way to Morning Freshness."

Take it tonight, according to the directions. And tomorrow, see how much brighter the whole world seems to be.

How this "Double-Freshener" works its overnight wonders

1. IT ALKALIZES almost instantly... sweetens acid sourness, that causes stomach distress, heartburn, gas... and restless nights.

2. A MILD LAXATIVE... so gentle that without any thought of embarrassing urgency, you can take it at any time.

25¢—4 oz.
50¢—12 oz.

Spain; Objective Analyses

THE SPANISH LABYRINTH: AN ACCOUNT OF THE SOCIAL AND POLITICAL BACKGROUND OF THE CIVIL WAR, by Gerald Brenan. (The Macmillan Company.)

MR. BRENAN is an English veteran of World War I who settled in Spain and farmed there, had the opportunity to explore the mind and emotions of the people below the level of superficial appearances.

Although the Spaniards are individualistic, R. L. Duffas writes in the New York Times, there are one or two points in which Spaniards of all parties, the religious and the godless, seem to him to have a tendency to agree. The most important of these is an affection for certain aspects of the past, or at least a dislike for certain aspects of the present. Thus:

"Every class has its own way of showing the repugnance it feels for modern capitalist civilization. The risings of the anarchists and the Carlists are one form; the idleness of the rich, the lack of enterprise of the business men and the sluggishness of the bankers are another."

Whatever historical causes may be assigned to this refractoriness it remains a fact that Spaniards live either for pleasure or for ideals, but never for personal success or for money-making.

That is why every Spanish business man and shop assistant is a poet manqué; every working man has his "idea"; every peasant is a philosopher.

"No race in Europe is so profoundly egalitarian or has so little respect for success or property."

Of Primo de Rivera, dictator

By Audrey Alexandra Brown

This is Audrey Alexandra Brown's third book of verse. It sets this Canadian poet among the great of contemporary metred writers. In it she shows a mature, observing spirit, lightened by lifting whimsicality, and made profound in her meditative expressions. It is averse reading.

Celebrates 100th Birthday

A little lady, "just the exact height of the late Queen Victoria, who was big enough," as Mrs. Mary Pearce proudly announced, will celebrate her 100th birthday Thursday.

Mrs. Pearce, who resides at 857 McClure Street, finds comfort in reading her Bible daily, and what good books she can manage with a magnifying glass. A beautiful knitter, until the last year when she was forced to practically give it up because of her dimming sight, she explained that she could still do plain knitting when she could get the wool.

Her birthday plans are not ambitious. Her daughter, Mrs. K. Pogram of Vancouver, will be here for the celebration, and plans to remain a month. One of her nieces has ordered a special birthday cake which will have 100 candles, and she expects that her many friends from Victoria will call and pay their regards.

Mrs. Pearce was born in Ipswich, England, and was one of 10 children of a Mr. and Mrs. Rainier. In a sad little voice Mrs. Pearce said that she was the only one of the family of 10 left, and that she "gets very lonely sometimes and wish I were with them."

She was married from St. Mary's Church, Ipswich, and two or three years later, after the birth of her daughter, accompanied her husband to Auckland, NZ, where the family lived for about eight years. They moved to Sydney, Australia, and about 50 years ago came to Canada and resided in Vancouver.

About 40 years ago she came to Victoria to visit her sister, and liked the place so well that she remained and has made her home here ever since.

She does not get out and about very much because she has become quite lame. Her mind is clear and she has many anecdotes about her childhood days in England, when she used to frequently see the Queen riding along the "row."

Her only grandchild was killed in the last war at the age of 22, but she has, as she expresses it, "nieces and nephews galore."

W.A. to Children's Aid will meet Monday, 2.30, at the Y.W.C.A.

Christ Church Cathedral W.A. senior afternoon branch, will hold an autumn tea at the deanery Wednesday from 3 to 5.

Young Canada
GROWS STRONG!

While Canada fights, a young generation is growing up straight-limbed and strong to meet the world of tomorrow.

Not long ago the Canadian Council of Nutrition warned that although Canadians, generally speaking, were eating plenty of food, 20% of our population was definitely undernourished and another 40% was just on the border-line.

So Canada laid down her "Official Food Rules" ... the minimum daily food requirements of a healthy person.

Food is health. It took a war to teach us this lesson. If it does nothing else, the war at least has awakened us to a basic human truth.

ICE CREAM IS A PROTECTIVE FOOD

Milk is first in Canada's "Food Rules". In ice cream you get 80% cream and milk solids by weight. If your Palm Diner cannot always supply you, remember: ice cream is limited and THE QUALITY BRAND SELLS OUT FIRST. We're doing our utmost to meet your needs.

INCOME TAX And the COMMUNITY CHEST APPEAL

The real cost to you of a contribution to the Combined Community Chest and Salvation Army Appeal is much less than the face value.

This is because the Federal Government has offered to pay close to half of YOUR contribution by allowing you to take it off your income tax.

There is a good reason for this. The government has made it clear that it looks on this combined welfare appeal as a good investment well worth the loss in income tax revenue.

Everyone's income tax is different. But the following table shows how it works out in practice for a married man with no dependents. If you have children, your tax will be less, but the principle is the same. If you are single, the tax will be more, but the principle is still the same. In all cases, the savings in income tax, caused by donations to this appeal, will be similar.

Taxable Income	Sample Donation	Reduces Income Tax By	Real Cost of Donation
$1,300.00	$ 13.00	$ 5.25	$ 7.75
1,500.00	15.00	6.00	9.00
1,800.00	18.00	7.92	10.08
2,000.00	20.00	8.80	11.20
2,400.00	24.00	10.56	13.44
3,000.00	30.00	14.40	15.60
3,500.00	40.00	19.20	20.80
4,000.00	50.00	24.00	26.00
4,500.00	70.00	36.40	33.60
5,000.00	100.00	52.00	48.00

U.S. Gen. O'Connor To Be Honored Here

Brig.-Gen. J. A. O'Connor, U.S.A., commanding officer of the Northwest Service Command which takes in Alaska and the Yukon, will visit Victoria next Tuesday to present to the B.C. government a copy of the famous Bulkley journal, telling the story of the laying of the first telegraph line across northern British Columbia.

The journal will be received for the government by Hon. Herbert Anscorn, Minister of Public Works, at a government luncheon to Gen. O'Connor next Tuesday at the Empress Hotel. Mr. Anscorn will represent Premier John Hart, who is in eastern Canada.

Victoria heads of the navy, army and air force have been invited to the luncheon to meet Gen. O'Connor, who will be accompanied by his staff officer, Col. K. B. Bush and his aids, Capt. R. L. Neuberger.

Study British Empire

A recent article by Sir Norman Angell, entitled "What Is the British Empire?", has been reprinted, by permission of the author and publishers, by the B.C. education department and distributed to all high schools in the province, Hon. H. G. T. Perry, Minister of Education, said today.

Dr. S. J. Willis, superintendent of education, in instructions to principals and teachers of high schools, says "the article is to be studied and discussed in all social studies' classes from grades 9 to 13."

Macdonald Shows Fine Portrait Work

A similar feeling of power and action characterizes all the black and white drawings of Grant Macdonald, now on display in Spencer's Art Gallery, though different styles of technique are employed.

The sketches, all depicting various phases of service life—seamen hauling in ropes, airmen working on their engines, soldiers at bayonet drill—are done in conte, some finely outlined with a little shading, others so smoothly blended and shaded they look like water color washes.

The group on the left of the entrance door is particularly "alive." This group of five shows a flier in the cockpit of a descending plane; a ski trooper in bold outlines highlighted with white chalk; a dispatch rider, face illuminated by the motor-bike's headlight; and "Flier Joins the Caterpillar Club."

"Single in File, Abreast in Formation" shows soldiers marching to the front line, already firing. Difficult foreshortening of the arm that holds a pistol is well-executed, exemplifying Mr. Macdonald's exceptional ability to make his subjects realistic. It is also indicative of his thorough knowledge of anatomy, which is again evident in some of his studies of stokers, whose muscles seem to ripple with a real fourth-dimensional effect.

Interesting light and shadow effect on the model for "Bomb Sight" makes this one of the best on exhibition. Mr. Macdonald has sought, successfully, to draw the individual personality and character of his model into his drawings; there is not that so often found "sameness" about his faces lesser artists cannot draw away from.

Unusual angles have found favor with the artist, who exercises ingenuity in picking out forceful subjects—such as the sailor shimmying down a rope, with a miniature lifeboat below giving perspective and feeling of height; and sketch entitled "Airscrew Inspection," and the flier topsy-turvy in the air.

Portraiture is one of Mr. Macdonald's strong points. He has done Noel Coward, Lynne Fontaine, Greer Garson, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Sir Ernest MacMillan and Ruth Draper among others. This is clearly evident in his study of six seamen and Doze, the dog, which captures the nonchalant gesturing, the casual grace of men in relation with admirable effect.

His portraits on display range from Brig. Logie Armstrong to "Assistant Cook," "Desert Soldier" and a close-up called "Laughing Away the Gremlins."

The exhibition is worth seeing, both for the excellence of the artist's work and to get an insight into the lives of the men in uniform.

Court of Appeal

Appeal of George E. Slater and Amy Slater against a Supreme Court judgment of Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, covering shares in the British Columbia Hunting Club Ltd., opened before the Court of Appeal Friday.

The court allowed the appeal and ordered a new trial on Andrew Boldrick's claim for damages against Richard Anderson for alienation of the affections of Mrs. Boldrick. Mr. Justice Smith had withdrawn the case from the jury and dismissed the action in trial court. Costs of the first trial will abide results of the second.

Directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, consistently active in bringing about improvements to the transgulf air service, recently made strong representations for an improvement.

Plans to change the Vancouver terminus from Sea Island to the old Pier D in Vancouver harbor, are being investigated. This would cut more than half an hour from the Vancouver-Victoria air schedule.

This move would raise former proposals for the landing of passenger and mail planes in the Inner Harbor here.

City T.C.A. Request Turned Down Again

Victoria's renewed application to the Board of Transport Commissioners for passenger service on T.C.A. planes between this city and Vancouver has again been declined by the board, according to a letter from the secretary received at the City Hall today.

The board found that public convenience and necessity did not require further air transportation for the carriage of passengers and goods between Victoria and Vancouver.

Two New Planes For Victoria Run; May Use Harbor

Within the next six weeks two Beechcraft twin-engined metal planes will be brought here to speed up C.P.A. air service between Victoria and Vancouver.

L. B. Uwin, president of Canadian Pacific Airways, Montreal, who is now on the coast, announced today.

Joseph McKenna was granted a motion abandoning the appeal of Sydney B. Croll, sentenced on 30 days' imprisonment on a charge of unlawfully having the care and control of a car on a public highway while intoxicated.

B.C. School Trustees Meet Here Monday

Two luncheons, a reception by the B.C. government, a tea and complimentary banquet will feature entertainment of British Columbia school trustees who will open their annual convention at the Empress Hotel Monday morning.

Delegates will arrive Sunday and registrations for the sessions will start that evening at the Empress Hotel.

At noon Monday a luncheon will feature two films brought from New York for the convention, "And So They Live" and "The Children Must Learn," studies of community development through applied educational programs.

At 3:30 delegates will be taken to the Parliament Buildings for a reception and tour of the buildings.

Tuesday's luncheon will be a joint affair with the Kiwanis Club at which Dr. John M. Ewing will speak on "Education Today."

Lady visitors will be taken on a short excursion arranged by Trustee Mrs. A. S. Christie, starting at 2. They will visit shopping centres, the museum, Thunderbird Park, Helmcken House and wind up with a tea at the Crystal Garden.

MAJOR FEATURE

As one of the major events of the convention the local hosts will entertain delegates at a banquet in the hotel at which Hon. H. G. T. Perry, Minister of Education, will be the speaker and selections will be rendered by pupils of Greater Victoria schools. The function will start at 6.

F. G. Mulliner, chairman of the local board, will be chairman of the convention, with Trustees Austin Curtis, Mrs. Christie and W. A. Bayliss in charge of entertainment. Trustees G. A. B. Hall and Cecil Parrott are looking after house arrangements, with Trustees H. E. Douglas and Curtis handling transportation and accommodation.

Registrations will be in charge of T. L. Christie, board secretary, Miss V. Turner, Miss M. James and Miss M. Pirie.

Navy Cadet Dinner

Court Maple Leaf, A.O.F., will meet Monday at 7:30. Bingo will be played and refreshments served.

Theft of their cars was reported to city police Friday by Tom Miller, 1252 Denman, and Mrs. R. C. Whins, 1148 Hillside.

A quantity of office supplies and stationery has been stolen from a baggage car at the E. and N. depot. C.P.R. officials told the city police today.

Representing the Navy League will be Harry R. Gillard, managing secretary, Montreal, and J. K. R. Millen, assistant sea cadet co-ordinator, Winnipeg.

Others attending will be Capt. J. M. Grant, R.N., commanding officer; Instructor-Cmdr. K. G. B. Ketchum, R.C.N.V.R., of H.M.C.S. Royal Roads, and Cmdr. R. P. Kingscote, R.C.N., H.M.C.S. Naden.

"Lack of adequate housing is our limiting factor at the moment," a Yarrow official said. "As soon as we can house more personnel, as a result we can pep up our program."

VANCOUVER CHANGES

Greater Victoria shipyard workers need have no fear of losing their jobs here for many months.

Both Victoria shipyards said today they are not cutting their payrolls or their working hours and had no intention of so doing.

Yarrow Ltd. said: "We're anticipating quite an increase in personnel. We have just received an urgent appeal from Ottawa to speed up our deliveries, which we are doing."

"Lack of adequate housing is our limiting factor at the moment," a Yarrow official said. "As soon as we can house more personnel, as a result we can pep up our program."

VANCOUVER CHANGES

In Vancouver Monday, thousands of shipyard workers will return to a five and a half day week.

Austin Delany, acting president of the boilermakers' union, said the unions had made considerable gains in their return to the five and a half day week. They have retained holidays with pay and the second shift now receives nine hours' pay for seven and a half hours' work.

Lunch time has been extended from 20 to 30 minutes.

One Vancouver report said contracts for 50 steel ships which were to have been built in Vancouver yards at a cost of $90,000,000 have been canceled.

At the V.M.D. yard Friday, realizing workers there were wondering what is happening locally, the management made the following statement: "No change is contemplated in the speed of the tanker building program for the winter, where this yard is concerned. We do not anticipate any layoffs other than those of employees who do not do their war jobs by being absentees, or by not pulling their weight in the boat while in the shipyards."

A.R.P. ACTIVITIES

District No. 9—The monthly meeting of warden's will be held on Monday in Britannia Hall at 8. All warden's are requested to attend as activities for the winter will be discussed.

The resolution follows: Twenty-two Saanich teachers wish to state their attitude upon the use of the word unanimous in reporting the endorsing of resolutions by the Saanich Teachers' Association concerning the recent inquiry.

Since the whole matter of the inquiry was handled by a properly constituted court of inquiry they feel that they are in no position to censure or approve its findings and therefore refrain from voting on any resolutions having to do with the matter. In spite of this desire to keep clear of the controversy entirely they now find themselves included in the 55 teachers reportedly unanimous for the resolution at the meeting of Sept. 22. Hence they wish to set forth their purpose in not voting and express their determination to take no part in the controversy. They were at the meeting for the purpose of electing officers not to discuss a matter which had been dealt with at a previous meeting at which many of them were not present.

The new government order lifting the restriction on civilians having automobile tires recapped will not alter the situation to any degree in Victoria, garage owners who do this type of work say.

"We have all the work we can handle without the added civilian business," one operator said, and pointed out that essential work still had very definite priorities.

He anticipated that they would be able to take care of some civilian work by working it in among essential orders.

The garages have sufficient material on hand to look after all the work, but where the catch comes in is in the labor situation, as there are not enough men to adequately handle the present work.

'Pied Piper' Comes To York Monday

One of the most tender and moving stories ever presented on the screen comes Monday to the York Theatre. It is the picturization of Nevil Shute's great novel, "The Pied Piper," and it follows the tradition of those other 20th Century-Fox's film versions of great novels, "How Green Was My Valley" and "The Grapes of Wrath."

Dramatically telling the touching story of a group of child refugees who are shepherded from occupied France to Britain and safety by a gruff Englishman, the picture has in abundance those elements which go to make up a great film—breath-taking pathos, rich humor and tense adventure.

Opening attraction will be Paul Draper and Larry Adler on Oct. 25. Paul Draper's dancing is of a superior order—using the ballet technique and tap-dancing in unique blend. When Larry Adler puts his mouth and sensitive hands to his harmonica, things become exciting.

Following Draper-Adler will be Vivian Della Chiesa, America's great lyric soprano, who will long be remembered by those concertgoers fortunate enough to hear the outdoor concert she gave with John Charles Thomas in Stanley Park, Vancouver, a few years ago.

Enters Fourth Day

WINNIPEG (CP)—Composing room employees of the Winnipeg Free Press continued their sit-down strike today—the fourth day—with no immediate sign of the deadlock being lifted.

The 60 workers involved demand recognition of Local 191, International Typographical Union, as their bargaining agent.

Neither wages nor working conditions are involved in the dispute.

"There has been no change in the situation since the men stopped work Wednesday," said a statement issued today by the Free Press. "The company has a joint contract with the Winnipeg Newspaper Printers' Association and the Winnipeg Tribune which prevents it entering into negotiations with any other union."

Members of the International Pressmen and Stereotypers' Union in the Free Press plant are not on strike. The Free Press continued to be printed on its own press.

Willie Winkle

Interesting beach acquaintances—a gentleman in tweeds and a Kingfisher.

A Prospective Sailor

WE MAY NOT see another day like this for awhile so let's take a ride up to the beach and see what's doing?" Skinny said as we were walking home from school Wednesday.

"Sure is a pip but I gotta cut the lawn, this weather's making it grow again," Jack said.

"Aw, skip it for once, your Ma won't care," I said. "Our lawn looks like a man that needs a shave too, but we ain't going to have these kind of afternoons always."

"Yeh, but you don't know my Ma," Jack said. "If my Dad should get home first and have a grouch on and get under my Ma's skin, boy, there might be fireworks when I walk in. Aw, well, I'll take a chance."

PINTO, Jack, Skinny, Rosy, Betty and I got our bikes and we rode all over the road getting to the beach. I don't wonder the people driving cars get mad when kids string out on the road. It wouldn't have been any wonder if one of us had been knocked down. Skinny's handlebars just grazed one car and Skinny shouted like a wild man at the driver. But it wasn't the driver's fault, it was all Skinny's and we told him so.

We rode along the top of the cliff until we saw a good piece of beach. We locked our bikes and skidded down to the beach. "Last one's down is Mussolini," Rosy called out.

Skinny was the last down and Rosy gave him a bit of her tongue, but Skinny is careful what he says back to Rosy now.

"If I'm a Mussolini den I gotta da right to maka da speech," said Skinny.

"Go ahead," I said. "Nobody'll listen to you anymore than they do to that other windbag, Mussy,"

IT'S THE STRANGEST thing, but as soon as you get on a beach you want to pick up a stone and throw it at something. Pinto saw a bottle bobbing along on the little wavelets and there were plenty of tin cans. They had dumped the garbage scows and the beaches were getting their daily deposit.

Pinto let fly at the bottle but missed it by five feet. In a jiffy everybody was flinging rocks but Rosy was the one who broke it. She's been pitching for a softball team and, boy, can she throw!

"Nice going," said Skinny to Rosy. "How'd you get so much zip in your throw, with such a delicate arm?"

"Just snap my wrist. Look!" said Rosy. "You kids all throw from your shoulders. I do, too, but when I nearly complete my swing I snap my wrist. There."

We all had to try out Rosy's style. Can you imagine a girl showing us how to throw? Well, you don't know our Rosy. Boy, if she ever slapped your face you'd probably think a block-buster hit you.

IT WASN'T long before we were squatting all over the beach, looking for agates. Well, they might not be real agates but there are plenty of lovely colored pebbles. Some people pick out the real classy ones and have them polished. They look grand.

"Zowie, lookout," shouted Skinny. "Must have been a Mosquito-bomber went over my head."

"Just a kingfisher," said Pinto. "See, there he goes in the bank."

"Just wait a minute and he'll come out and dive for a fish," I said. "Boy, how those kingfishers can hit the water! I remember we had one at the lake, we used to call him 'Bullet.' Soon as he'd see a fish — if he was hungry — he'd whiz off his perch and disappeared in the water before you could even whistle. He'd get his fish and swallow it bones and all."

While we'd been chinning an elderly gentleman came along. He wore a tweed suit and cap and carried a cane. He looked at us.

"Nice afternoon," he said pleasantly. "Should be fine for a swim."

"A swim!" I shouted. "Why you freeze in this water in the summer time!"

"Oh, it's not that bad, I had my dip this morning as usual," the old gentleman said.

We all did a big swallow and looked admiringly at the old gentleman.

"What are you?" asked Skinny.

"An Eskimo."

"Oh, dear no," he replied. "Just a doddering old chap who isn't of much account in the world today. Matter of fact, I spent a lot of my time in India. Pretty hot there."

"Boy, bet you had a lot of fun over there shooting tigers," said Skinny.

"Yes, I've spotted a few," he replied. "My word, what was that; just about lifted my headgear?"

"A kingfisher," Pinto answered. "Interesting bird; there's a legend about it, now, let me see," the old chap said, as he stroked his chin. "Now it comes to me. Greek legend, of course. The bird is identified with a girl named Halycon, who married a young fellow by the name of Ceyx. Shortly after the wedding Ceyx was lost at sea, poor fellow. When his young bride heard of this, she was very upset, naturally. It wasn't long before she was found drowned, dumped overboard somewhere, poor girl. The Greek gods were greatly impressed by this story and they changed the young folks into kingfishers of all things. Of course they wanted a lot of little kingfishers so they ordered the two kingfishers who had been Halycon and Ceyx, to build their nest on the water. The nesting time was to be seven days before and seven days after the shortest day of the year, December 21, and during that time there should be calm weather. Of course there wouldn't be calm weather around here, goodness gracious, we always have some roaring gales at Christmas. But over in Greece it's different."

"The wind god, Aeolus, is supposed to have given the kingfishers control of the wind. If so I hope the kingfishers around here will behave themselves. They certainly did a bad job this summer. They simply turned the wind loose."

"That's where they got the saying 'Halycon Days' from, isn't it?" asked Pinto.

"Right my boy," said the old chap. "Halycon Days mean days when the sea is always calm and there is no wind."

We moved off hurriedly.

A Business Man

Little Johnny's mother had just presented him with twin sisters, and the household was in a state of excitement. Father beamed with pride as he took Johnny on one side.

"If you tell your teacher about it, I'm sure she'll give you a day's holiday," he said.

That evening Johnny came home radiant with joy.

"You were right, Dad. I don't have to go to school tomorrow," he announced proudly.

"Did you tell your teacher about the twins?" asked his father.

"No, I just told her I had a baby sister!"

"But you should have told her you had two of them."

"Oh, no!" said Johnny. "I'm saving one for next week!"

Dumb Dore

The two chorus girls were having tea together.

"Do you know," said one, "when the manager asked me my age I couldn't tell him the life of me remember whether I was 20 or 21."

"What did you say?"

"Oh, I split the difference and said 19."

THERE'S another legend about the kingfisher, mister." It was Rosy popping off. "If you get a kingfisher and stuff it and then hang it on a string, the beak will always point to the direction from which the wind blows; sort of makes a weather vane."

"Yes, you're right, young lady," he said. "From Shakespeare, I think. Silly though, isn't it? We old folks went in for a lot of legends and superstitions, but you young people are so practical-minded I guess you think it just a laugh — now what's that word you use — come now, George, you're slipping — oh, yes, so much banality."

We all had a laugh at that and the old chap laughed too. He had a good stock of Peruvian history; their dead with terrace gardens rather than with decorative tombs.

An armadillo kills snakes by rolling on them.

Cook Took Poultry to Natives of South Pacific Islands

AT THE TIME Capt. Cook and his party reached Australia, little was known about that continent, but the Dutch had visited sections of the coast years before. They spoke of it as "New Holland," and a long time was to pass before the name of "Australia" would be used for it.

At one point along the northern coast, Cook landed with his men and a ceremony was performed. A long pole was placed in the ground and the flag of Great Britain was run up. Although they were not the first to reach Australia, the British were first to explore certain important parts.

Strangely enough, people of that time were not sure whether or not the island of New Guinea was joined to Australia. On his voyage Cook proved that the two were separate, because he sailed between them.

HISTORY WAS to bring a peaceful settlement of any claims the Dutch felt they had to Australia. The Dutch were far more interested in Java and other parts of the East Indies. Those islands, indeed, have proved more of a source of riches for Holland than Australia could have been.

After leaving Australia, Cook sailed to Java, where he was greeted and entertained by the Dutch governor. A long rest was enjoyed there, but sad to say, some members had become ill with scurvy and several of them died after reaching Java.

One of those who died was a native of the island of Tahiti. He was known as Tupia, and had joined the party of his own wish.

He had waved good-bye to his people, thinking to return at a later time and tell them of his strange adventures. As it came out, he did see many strange sights, but he never was to see his old friends again. He was buried on Java.

THE LITTLE vessel, the Endeavor, met with trouble. At one time it had struck a reef and a hole had been cut in the bottom. Also the pumps were not working well.

The vessel and the pumps were repaired as well as possible at Java and then the voyage was renewed. Southwestward through the Indian ocean the Endeavor sailed. It rounded the Cape of Good Hope, then was piloted northward back to Great Britain.

That marked a trip around the world for Capt. Cook, a rare thing in those days.

"Sure does," said Jack. "Let's get going. I'm hungry. I got to cut that lawn."

We moved off hurriedly.

Cook caused the British flag to be raised, showing Great Britain's claim to a section of Australia.

Potatoes and poultry were taken to some of the South Pacific islands by Capt. Cook.

VOYAGE TO THE PACIFIC. The British government wanted him to learn how far to the south the continent, or island, of New Holland (Australia) extended.

THIS TIME he had two vessels, the Resolution and Adventure, under his command. The voyage was charted around the southern end of Africa and into the Indian Ocean.

AFTER CROSSING THE INDIAN OCEAN Capt. Cook reached the South Pacific at a point far below Australia. Several times his men saw tall icebergs in the distance and one of these was mistaken for an island. A closer view then proved that it was simply a mass of floating ice.

Icebergs float in the ocean but they are composed of frozen fresh water. This proved of importance to the men aboard the two vessels. From time to time sailors boarded rowboats and made their way to an iceberg.

WITH AXES THEY cut off chunks of the ice and took them back to the sailing vessels to be melted for drinking water!

AWEEK FROM TODAY we shall have the third and last of our present stories about Capt. Cook, including an account of his sad end during his Pacific travels.

Saturday's Origin

THREE OF THE main planets which go around the sun could not be seen by people of ancient times. Since they had no telescopes they never saw the planets which we now call Uranus, Neptune and Pluto.

The planets which they did see were given names. To this day we speak of Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn, the same as did the Romans of 2,000 years ago.

The farthest planet which the Romans were able to look at was Saturn. Thanks to its interesting rings, it is well known today, but not a great deal is told about the god for whom it was named.

Since Saturday is "Saturn's day," let us go into the myths about the god Saturn. You and I know that the myths are not true but people believed them in ancient times. They built temples in honor of their gods and goddesses and offered sacrifices to them.

SAURIN WAS the "god of crops." Legends said that at one time he had ruled on earth as aking, he was wise and kind and taught his people how to plant seeds.

The god Saturn, as imagined by ancient Romans.

PASSING FROM EARTH AT LAST, SATURN WENT BACK TO MOUNT OLYMPUS TO TAKE HIS PLACE AMONG THE GODS. People kept him in memory and told about the peace and plenty which had been enjoyed when he was on earth. They spoke of that time as the Golden Age.

IN HONOR OF SATURN, TEMPLES WERE BUILT. ONE OF THOSE TEMPLES CAN BE SEEN IN ROME AT THIS DAY. IT IS PARTLY RUINED BUT IT GIVES US SOME IDEA OF THE HONOR WHICH WAS PAID TO THIS ANCIENT GOD.

WHEN ROMAN ARTISTS DREW PICTURES OF SATURN, IT WAS THEIR CUSTOM TO SHOW HIM WITH A BEARD AND WITH NARROW STRIPS OF WOOL AROUND HIS LEGS. SOMETIMES (BUT NOT ALWAYS) HE WAS PICTURED WITH WINGS AND WITH A TWO-PRONGED HOE OF A KIND ONCE USED BY FARMERS IN ITALY.

A GREAT FEAST IN HONOR OF SATURN WAS HELD IN ROME EACH YEAR. THIS FEAST STARTED AFTER THE MIDDLE OF DECEMBER AND LASTED FROM THREE TO SEVEN DAYS. IT WAS CALLED "SATURNALIA."

DURING THE SATURNALIA, THE ROMANS CLOSED THEIR SHOPS AND STOPPED ALL WORK. THEY MADE MERRY AND GAVE PRESENTS TO ONE ANOTHER. DOLLS MADE OF CLAY WERE GIVEN TO SMALL CHILDREN.

Longtail the Opossum

By F. J. WORRALL

SURPRISING AS IT MAY SEEM, THIS CURIOUS little animal is a cousin of the Australian kangaroo. Not that they resemble each other in the least, nor does the opossum jump like a kangaroo. Nevertheless, this creature belongs to the group of marsupials, or pouched animals.

He has a body somewhat like that of the raccoon or tree bear and is about 20 inches long. All four of his legs are the same length, with five-clawed toes for climbing. He takes to a tree quickly because he doesn't walk very well and, like the bear, builds his nest in the hollow of a tree. His grey or white fur is tipped with brown all over and his long, ratlike tail is used as a balance in climbing and swinging.

The opossum has a sharp pointed face, ears like a bat, the five-clawed feet of a little bear; and the pouch of a kangaroo.

MR. AND MRS. OPOSSUM NEVER LEAVE THEIR BABIES AT HOME. WHEN THEY ARE SMALL, MAMMA OPOSSUM CARRIES THEM IN THE POUCH ON HER ABDOMEN. OFTEN THERE ARE A DOZEN OR MORE, AND THEY ARE A HALF-INCH LONG WHEN BORN. WHEN OLD ENOUGH, THEY RIDE ON THEIR MOTHER'S BACK. ARRANGED IN A ROW, THEY CLING FAST WITH THEIR CLAWS TO THE FUR, THEIR TAIL TAILS WRAPPED AROUND THE PARENT'S TAIL AND HELD HIGH OVER THEIR BACKS. THEY ARE EXTREMELY

CUNNING, BUT BY NATURE RATHER SLUGGISH AND STUPID. THEY HUNT MOSTLY BY NIGHT OUT IN FIELDS, WOODS AND SWAMPS, BUT THEY PAY WELL FOR ANY FOOD THEY CONSUME BY EATING THE DESTRUCTIVE COTTON RAT. THEIR FAVORITE FOOD IS, OF COURSE, THE SWEET, FROST-WRINKLED PERSIMMON.

THE "PLAY OPOSSUM" TRICK ORIGINATED WITH THIS LITTLE FELLOW. WHEN APPROACHED BY AN ENEMY HE CLOSES HIS EYES, PRETENDING TO BE DEAD. OFTEN TIMES HE FOOLS HIS PURSUITERS BY ROLLING INTO A LIMP BALL AND LYING STILL, ALL THE WHILE KEEPING A WATCHFUL EYE. NO SOONER HAS THE INTRUDER VANISHED THAN THE "POSSUM" UNROLLS AND SLIPS AWAY.

THESE ARE OVER 20 SPECIES, RANGING IN SIZE FROM THAT OF A MOUSE TO THAT OF A CAT. THEY ARE FOUND IN MOST PARTS OF THE UNITED STATES AND SOUTH AMERICA.

WILD OPOSSUMS NEST IN THE TEMPERATE ZONE, RAISING THE YOUNG THERE. WHEN AUTUMN COMES THEY START FLYING TOWARD THE SUNNY SOUTHLAND AS DO OTHER BIRDS, TRAVELING IN HUGE V-SHAPED FLOCKS WITH A LEADER AT THE HELM. EN ROUTE THEY PAUSE TO REST AND FEED, SOMETIMES STOPPING OVER FOR SEVERAL DAYS.
